

Do we really care about average turnaround time?

Alternative: target service level
(i.e. percent returned within 48 hours)

